

ACRISURE PRESIDENT JOHN TUTTLE

WITH HOST DON YAEGER

Don's Favorite quotes from this episode:

- Great leaders help their teams balance ambition with patience. It's about staying hungry for growth while understanding that real success takes time and consistent effort.
- I'll never forget dropping a perfect pass under the lights in high school. Those are the moments that motivate you—when you fail short despite all the work. You can't write them off. You have to let them shape where you go.
- Run to where the problem is, and not from it. You'll learn so much. You'll gain people's trust and respect, and you know you're in the arena, you're helping, you're in the game, versus being on the sidelines hoping somebody else solves it.
- After meeting thousands of people at the New York Stock Exchange, you get pattern recognition. I could tell you in minutes what companies were real, which weren't, which leaders were real, which weren't.

Reflection Questions:

How would you rate yourself on balancing ambition with patience—for both your own goals and how you guide your team?

In what ways does your culture encourage learning from mistakes rather than assigning blame?
